

Hopefully my Spanish sounds better

by Rev. Joe Dirt - Saturday, March 30, 2024

<https://curmudgeon-alley.com/hopefully-my-spanish-sounds-better/>

The other day while speaking with one of my long term Spanish tutors via Skype I made the comment that my Spanish was too poor to have been studying the language for as long as I have.

A few days later he sent me his video. The comment basically translates as “imagine you have been studying English for 5 years and you ended up speaking like this guy.”

Of course he sounds like every other good old boy I have ever known in Oklahoma, Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi, Texas or Missouri. One of my self-deprecating jokes is that I speak Spanish with a Southern accent, and it is not from the south of Spain.

Years ago I wrote a blog posting My Chinese Nightmare that was a take on this theme.

https://curmudgeon-alley.com/wp-content/uploads/2024/03/426628628_720911260149472_3718397661739183846_n.mp4

And so it goes.

Subscribe to Curmudgeon Alley